Program For Public Centennial Celebration

Of Mt. Zion Lodge No. 9 F. & A. M. Friday, June 24

Parade To Be Given In The City In The Morning

And Picnic And Speaking At Hiawatha Park

Reception At Masonic Temple In Evening

Mount Zion lodge, No. 9, F. & A. M., which in January last, at a regular communication, celebrated the completion of the hundredth year of its existence, will, on the festival of St. John the Baptist, June 24, 1910, complete the celebration with a day of events which will be replete with interest. Invitations were extended to the various Masonic lodges of the county, together with the families of the members, and these invitations have been heartily accepted.

The program for the day includes a parade of the lodges at 10 a. m., a basket picnic and dinner at Hiawatha park at noon, a program in the park auditorium at 2 p. m., followed by a band concert, a band concert on Monument square at 7 p. m., and a reception in the Masonic temple, with a concert program by the orchestra, at 8 p. m.

All Masons of the city, as well as all other citizens, are requested to display the National colors from their residences and places of business on that day, and all residents along the line of march are particularly requested to decorate their houses. The exercises at the park will be open to the public, but the reception at the temple in the evening will be open to Masons and their families only. There will be no charge for admission to the park.

The Parade

The parade will be in charge of Major Wm. Appleton, chief marshal, assisted by Messrs. C. G. Hunt and Geo. B. Kelley, assistant marshals, and the following: Mr. L. E. Rawlinson, captain general of Clinton commandery, No. 5, K. T., which body in full uniform, will do escort duty; Mr. L. A. Duke, marshal for Thrall lodge, No. 170, Fredericktown; Mr. L. McCammett, as marshal for Ohio lodge, No. 199, Bladensburg; Dr. S. Robert Best as marshal for Bloomfield lodge, No. 422, Centerburg; Mr. H. K. Darrah as marshal for Danville lodge, No. 546, Danville; Dr. E. C. Beggs and Mr. C. L. Weaver as marshals for Mt. Zion lodge, No. 9, F. & A. M. The parade will form on Monument square in the following order:

Platoon of Police
Chief Marshal
Neddermeyer's Band
Clinton Commandery No. 5, K. T.
Thrall lodge, No. 170
Ohio lodge, No. 199
Bloomfield lodge, No. 422
Danville lodge, No. 546
Mt. Vernon City Band
Mt. Zion lodge, No. 9
Carriages

Carriages will be provided for aged and infirm Masons and for the distinguished visitors.

It is reported that both the Centerburg and Danville lodges expect to be accompanied by bands. If they are, the bands will be assigned to their proper places in the parade.

Line of March

Form on square, north on Main street to Sugar, east on Sugar to Gay, south on Gay to High, east on High to McKenzie, south on McKenzie to Gambier, west on Gambier to Main, north on Main to High, west on High to Norton, countermarch on High to square, and disband.

Program at Park

Basket dinner at noon. All will be expected to bring baskets, but those who do not desire to do so may procure dinner at the park dining hall. Hot coffee will be provided free by the committee, but visitors must provide the "trimmings." At 2 p. m. in the auditorium the following program, Mr. Chas. C. Iams, chairman of the centennial committee, presiding:

Benediction—The Rev. W. E. Hull.

Band concert.
Evening Program
Band concert at 7.
Reception in temple at 8. Concert program.

Should the weather prove unsuitable for the out-door program, the exercises will be held in the temple.
The grand master of Ohio Masons is expected to be present in the forenoon.

Arrangements for the checking and transportation of baskets are being made and details will be announced later.

Visiting Masons and all members of Mt. Zion lodge are requested to bring their aprons with them.

To Wear Colors

In order to show in what decade they were made Masons, all members of the craft are requested to wear ribbon on the day of the celebration, the designated colors being as follows: Those made in the fifties to wear a white ribbon; those made in the sixties to wear purple; in the seventies, blue; in the eighties, red; in the nineties, old gold, and those made since 1900, green. No. 2 ribbon is the proper size.

DEATH

Comes To Theodore Selders Friday Evening

Received Fatal Injuries At Zuck Mill

Millwood, O., June 4—Theodore Selders, aged 35 years, who was so terribly injured Friday morning by being caught in the shafting at the Zuck mill, died of his injuries at the home of his mother, Mrs. M. E. Selders, in Butler township, at 9 o'clock Friday evening.

An examination of Selders' injuries revealed the fact that the left side of his body was crushed in, all the ribs and the collar bone being broken. Selders regained consciousness soon after the accident and although the attending physician told him he had a chance of recovery, Selders insisted that he would die and death came to relieve his sufferings at the hour mentioned above.

The deceased is survived by his mother and by several brothers and sisters.

The funeral Monday at 10 o'clock from the Christian church at Killbuck, the Rev. W. R. Walker officiating. Interment in the Killbuck cemetery.

BLOUSES

Are More Popular Than Ever This Season

And All Garments Pretty And Effective

The Collarless Effect Seems To Prevail

Designers Of Millinery Are Producing

Hats Of Great Interest And Variety

(By Florence Fairbanks)

New York, June 4.—Contrary to all predictions blouses are more popular than ever this season and a scrutiny of the displays in the big fashionable shops will convince anyone that this season's blouses are exceptionally pretty and effective. One of the most striking features is the employment of frills for ornamentation. Frills are decidedly impractical, especially with lingerie waists or blouses, but they are pretty and give a dainty effect that cannot be obtained by any other style of ornamentation.

The frill collar implies a bare throat, or at least that is the case with the lingerie models, though in the costume blouses of chiffon, crepe, etc., a frill neck finish is often accompanied by the shallowest of transparent guimpes with close high collar. In the lingerie model this idea does not work out very well and where a high collar is required the frill usually runs down the front.

The collarless blouse, like the collarless frock, has things very much its own way in Paris, save for delightful little sheer tucked and frilled and long-sleeved models designated as "tailored," but although the chic Parisian has taken up the collarless models with enthusiasm there are always women even in Paris who refuse slavishly to adopt unbecoming modes, and in New York there are plenty of fashionable women who will have none of the collarless models.

When a collarless frock or blouse is becoming, it is charming, but few women past their teens wear it well in connection with a severe street costume. In such cases the hard collar line should be softened by a lingerie frill or embroidered lingerie collar falling over the tailored collar and coming next to the throat. There are numbers of such collars in all grades of fineness and usually accompanied by cuffs to match.

The veiling idea has strongly influenced the designers of costume blouses and many of the prettiest models in this class are of chiffon, silk mousseline or etamine veiling silk or satin, lace or contrasting chiffon. The idea is not altogether new, but the treatment is, for the blouses follow the frock lines, and the best looking of the veiled models are excessively simple in line and have most of their elaboration, if elaboration there is, applied to the foundation, while the sheer veiling is of the most pronounced simplicity.

Sometimes, where the collarless effect is not desired, instead of introducing a guimpe the veiling chiffon or mousseline is run up to form a perfectly plain yoke and collar, semi-transparent of course and perhaps relieved by a line of white or cream at the collar top. Often two veilings of chiffon are used in order to obtain a desired color effect.

The bordered chiffons are used for some attractive little blouses of simple line, a surprise arrangement with the modified kimono sleeve being a design often chosen for such material. Persian or cachemire silks veiled in plain chiffon, cachemire chiffon veiled in plain chiffon and cachemire chiffon or mousseline in exquisite soft tones without veiling are popular blouse motifs and much is done with these charming antique printed cottons or cretonnes veiled in plain chiffon or made up without veiling and softened by net or lace collars and frills and touches of black in cravats, buttons, etc.

The newest models in very handsome handmade lingerie blouses are composed of heavy soft handwoven linen, beautifully embroidered in openwork designs and combined with the sheerest of linen and finest of laces. The cotton crepes are less used by the blouse makers than they were last season, but some handsome models are made up in the fine cotton etamines. White linen embroidered in color is much liked, the touch of color echoing some one of the tones in skirt and coat with which the blouse is worn.

The designers of millinery are producing new hats of great and interesting variety. Some of them are charming or quaint; others are extraordinary in size and line, and the rest are wonderfully beautiful in line and color. There are some hats that reach down to the eyebrows, with trimming sloping abruptly toward the back, giving an unbecoming top-heavy appearance that few women can wear and look well. On very tall and slim women these hats look perfectly grotesque.

There are so many pretty and becoming shapes to choose from that it is a pity to encourage the freakish. There are soft straw toques for traveling including the draped rajah turbans, the folded capotes and the closely fitted shapes with high rolling brims at the side. Many of these are of plaid straw or of a fortunate combination of two tones that every woman loves.

Leghorns with velvet ribbon and masses of flowers for trimming are well adapted for afternoon wear. If a similar type is preferred the large, fine straws with a beauty of line and a few large hat pins are extremely chic. The huge black hat with its bow of tulle or lace will look well with any gown though there are other hats equally worthy of consideration.

This year ribbon bows are being employed extensively. They are used on the skirt and draperies and flounces are festooned and held by ribbon rosettes. Box-pleated ribbons are also a revived dress-trimming and a most profitable one for the ribbon makers, for yards and yards of ribbon are required for these pleatings which are used in narrow widths on sleeves and fichus and in very wide flounce effects on skirts.

The huge bows which are placed across the back of the new outing hats are often made of hemmed silk, but very wide. Soft ribbon is also used and is the easiest to tie gracefully. Changeable ribbons make very smart hat bows of this sort and sometimes a strip of the ribbon, shirred on cable cords, is arranged at the edge of the brim as a facing. When ribbon is used as the sole hat trimming, no expense should be spared in the ribbon itself. It should be of the richest quality and sufficiently wide to crush up into generously full loops and folds. The messaline satin ribbons are best for this purpose and the new millinery colors are particularly handsome.

Many of the hats for midsummer outing wear are of rough straw or of leghorn trimmed with nothing but big ribbon bows or choux, and perhaps a facing of velvet; but in every case these ribbon trimmings are so handsome as to be quite sufficient for smartness.

Sashes will be very popular this summer, and with the promised revival of old-fashioned 1850 styles we shall see the sash at the top of favor again. The new sash, however, must hang quite straight and simply against the skirt with hno fluttering loops or ends; in fact the smartest sashes are heavily weighted at the bottom, to keep them down.

The rich Persian and Dresden ribbons are used as dress trimmings and are used on wool and mohair frocks in the same manner that embroidery insertion is used on lingerie costumes.

Short dressing jackets show ribbons at the throat, back, in front in long loops and ends at the waist line, which is usually rather short.

There are some beautiful parasols with eyelet embroidery to match suits of linen, and others are trimmed with embroidery "set in," matching the lingerie gown prepared.

FIELD DAY

Program Of Events At First Ward School

Proves An Interesting Affair On Friday Afternoon

The first field day program in the city schools was carried out at the First ward Friday afternoon under the auspices of the First ward mothers' club and under the direction of Prof. E. E. Bliss, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., and was largely attended by parents of the scholars. A very interesting program was prepared by Prof. Bliss and the several events were earnestly contested by the boys and girls.

In the early fall it is the expectation to carry out similar programs in the other ward schools, to be followed by a general field day in which the winners in the ward school contests shall be the participants.

At the First ward contests pennants were awarded the winners as prizes of the occasion. Those given the boys were of blue with orange letters "F. W. S." while those to the girls were of orange and similar letters in blue.

After the events, which took place in the school yard, were concluded all present assembled in the school building where ice cream and cake were served.

The events and winners were as follows:

- 1st. Potato race (handicap) for boys from First to Fourth grade. Won by First grade.
- 2nd. 100-yard dash (handicap) for boys from Fifth to Eighth grade. Won by Fifth grade.
- 3rd. Handkerchief race for girls from First to Fourth grade. Won by Third grade.
- 4th. 50-yard dash for girls from Fifth to Eighth grade. Won by Fifth grade.
- 5th. 20-yard relay race for boys from First to Fourth grade. Won by Fourth grade.
- 6th. Tug-of-war for boys from Fifth to Eighth grade. Won by Eighth grade.
- 7th. 20-yard relay race for girls from First to Fourth grade. Won by Fourth grade.
- 8th. Dodge ball for girls from Fifth to Eighth grades. Won by Sixth grade.

Mrs. Fred Glosser went to Columbus Saturday morning to spend the day.

GOLDEN

Wedding Anniversary Of Mr. And Mrs. Phifer

Most Appropriately Celebrated On Friday

Gifts And Best Wishes For The Couple

(By L. G. H.)

It seems like fifty years is a long time in the history of one married couple, yet when one is called to witness the lovely scenes and joys of a golden wedding such as was celebrated by Mr. and Mrs. John J. Phifer of this city on Friday, June 3, it brings to mind that such things do occur and that marriage is not a failure.

At the noon hour the immediate relatives and friends, the Rev. and Mrs. G. A. Reeder and Mr. and Mrs. Judson of Mansfield sat down to a five-course dinner, prepared by Mrs. Charles Smith, that was equal to the wedding dinner of fifty years ago if not more elaborate and a number of guests present had the pleasure of partaking of that one also.

After the dinner was over the guests assembled in the dining room and a ceremony, seldom if ever witnessed at a golden wedding, took place—it being the baptism of Richard LeRoy Phifer, son of Harvey M. and Minnie Phifer of Pittsburg, Pa., the eldest son and his wife and the youngest grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Phifer. The baptismal ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. A. Reeder, pastor of the Gay Street M. E. church.

At three o'clock the friends began to arrive, bringing with them some beautiful gifts and tokens of love, and extending to the happy couple their congratulations and best wishes. From 6 until 10 o'clock in the evening seemed to be Methodist hours and the little home fairly groaned beneath its load of these good people and it looked at one time as if the sides would have to be taken out of the building to give space for the guests to celebrate.

At eight o'clock the Rev. and Mrs. D. A. Morris of the M. E. church called Mr. and Mrs. Phifer to stand up for a ceremony. They had no knowledge that it was the sealing of the token of love and esteem of the official board of the Gay Street M. E. church of which Mr. Phifer is a member. Rev. Mr. Morris spoke in eloquent words of the clouds and sunshine that come to one down life's journey, paying a lovely tribute to these two Christian people and their usefulness in the church. At the conclusion of his remarks he presented them $25 in gold. Mr. Phifer said in reply that all the gold that could be brought to them would not compensate the worth, the depth and the breadth of the love and fellowship of the grand true Christian souls that were his brothers and sisters in the church and the friends of today.

A quartette, consisting of W. F. Babb, Wm. F. Rimer, E. E. Ewing and J. C. Stephens came in during the evening to pay their respects and sang very sweetly, "Behold, a Stranger at the Door, He Gently Knocks, Has Knocked Before," and this brought the writer and the other guests, who were present fifty years ago a remembrance that this same song was sung by a lot of young people, who had come on the wedding night to give the newly-wedded couple a noiseless Sunday evening belling, as they were called in those days—the sacredness of the day not allowing the use of the old-time horse-fiddle.

At 10 o'clock the guests departed all feeling that they had added their share towards making the closing days of these two people enjoyable and pleasant.
